The Guardian, Saturday Magazine
16 August 2025

Out

Going out & Staying in

A cultural primer for the week ahead, whether you're sipping a cocktail or slurping a brew ...

Art

Aubrey Levinthal
Ingleby Gallery, Edinburgh, to 13 September
Paintings of everyday life in contemporary Philadelphia by an American artist (work pictured above) getting her first significant British exhibition. Levinthal is an introspective, low-key artist who sees the world in misted, ambiguous colours. She likes to look over rooftops, at flowers, or friends in the street. Goes well with festival hangovers.