

KATIE PATERSON

Katie Paterson is regarded as an artist working at the forefront of her generation. Collaborating with leading scientists and researchers across the world, Katie Paterson's poetic and conceptual projects consider our place on Earth in the context of geological time and change. Her artworks make use of sophisticated technologies and specialist expertise to stage intimate, poetic and philosophical engagements between people and their natural environment. Combining a Romantic sensibility with a research-based approach and coolly minimalist presentation, her work collapses the distance between the viewer and the most distant edges of time and the cosmos. Describing Paterson's work, museum curator Erica Burton explains the way she "engages with the landscape, as a physical entity and as an idea. Drawing on our experience of the natural world, she creates an expanded sense of reality beyond the purely visible".

Paterson graduated from the Slade School of Fine Art in 2007. In January 2014, she was the recipient of the South Bank Sky Arts Award for Visual Art. In 2015 Paterson's artwork Campo del Cielo, Field of the Sky (2014) was shortlisted for 46th Prix International d'Art Contemporain; awarded every three years for a recent work by an artist at the forefront of their practice. Paterson launched her 100-year artwork, Future Library in 2014 with Margaret Atwood, David Mitchell, Sjón, Elif Shafak, Han Kang, Ocean Vuong, Karl Ove Knausgård and Tsitsi Dangarembga all announced as contributing authors. Recent solo presentations of Paterson's work include The Earth Has Many Keys at NYLO The Living Art Museum, Reykavík, Iceland (2021); the final instalment in the NOW series of exhibitions at the Scottish National Gallery of Modern Art (2020); A place that exists only in moonlight at Turner Contemporary, Margate (2019); Szygygy at The Lowry, Manchester (2016); CentrePasquArt, Beil, Switzerland (2016); FRAC Franche-Comté, Besançon, France (2015) and Ideas at Ingleby Gallery (2014) - presented as part of GENERATION, a nationwide programme of exhibitions celebrating contemporary art in Scotland.

Katie Paterson's work is held in public collections internationally including the Guggenheim Museum, New York, USA; Whitney Museum of American Art, New York, USA; Princeton University Library, USA; Art Gallery of New South Wales, Sydney, Australia, FRA Franche-Comté, France, Edinburgh University, UK and Arts Council Collection UK.

Major recent commissions include Mirage, a permanent public sculpture for Apple Park, California, made in collaboration with studio Zeller & Moyer using sand collected from deserts across the earth; Ideas, a permanent commission by the University of Edinburgh; Burn, Forest, Fire by IHME Helsinki and Glass Exchange by the National Glass Centre and Durham Cathedral, UK.

Ingleby presented a solo exhibition of Katie Paterson's work, Requiem, an artwork that tells of the birth and life of our planet in a single object – an object that uses dust gathered from material dating from pre-solar times to those of the present, in the spring of 2022.
